Lectionary Bookmarks for Morning and Evening Prayer

Following the 1928 Lectionary from the 1928 Book of Common Prayer

Overview:

The Daily Office is an ancient practice of prayer which helps us orient our day toward God. We do this by pausing to recite prayers at various times of the day. While the Offices of Daily Morning Prayer and Daily Evening Prayer are the focus of this lectionary, there are other shorter offices that are also part of the Anglican tradition. Each day, in both Morning and Evening Prayer there are two lessons read as part of the Office: The First and Second Lessons.

The following Lectionary Bookmarkers have been created to make it easy to identify the readings for the offices of the day and to mark your place in your bible. Below is a screen shot of a book marker page. Notice that there are four columns, two columns for the First and Second Lessons of Morning Prayer and two for the First and Second Lessons of Evening Prayer. Down each column are the day of the week, the date and the reference for the reading. You will find that most of the time, readings continue in the same book of the bible as the week progresses. The sheets are designed to be printed double-sided so that each Lectionary Bookmarker lists two weeks of readings. Cut the four bookmarks across the top, bottom, and down the columns. Then, place them in your bible and you'll be ready to read all four lessons each day, moving the markers as needed.

Tips for Printing your Bookmarks

General Double Sided Printing Directions

Print in Landscape orientation; Double sided-Flip on the short edge; Print actual size (or at 100%) and make no adjustments to the margins. Please do a test of pages 1-2 of the lectionary to see double-sided printing works with your printer. Printers can vary in their performance.

The pages have been formatted so that the readings on both sides are aligned and fall within the cutting guides on the odd numbered pages.

Printing with Microsoft Edge, Chrome, Safari: I did not observe any issues opening and printing through these browsers when following the directions above.

Challenges printing with Firefox. I have found that if you print double sided using Firefox's default print menu that the reverse page in double sided printing is moved off center to the right. This causes the readings on one side to fall outside of the cutting guides. However, here is what does work in Firefox:

- Select the Custom pages that you want to print. The file has 52 weekly pages.
- Paper size: Letter
- Scale: 100%
- Two Sided Printing: Flip on Short edge
- Then Click this link: Print using the system dialog. Do not select the print button.

A "Firefox Print" window will open. Verify that Landscape orientation is indicated. Check and make sure that the correct pages for printing are selected. Then Click the Print button on that window. The printing on both sides of the paper should be aligned and within the cut guide on the odd numbered page.

Tips on using the bookmarkers

- Try printing on cardstock. 65 lb. cardstock worked for me. Then cut the four columns from top to bottom along the cut guides.
- I purchased plastic bookmark sleeves from Amazon for my bookmarkers. I found 7.5" X 2.5" sleeves that have an internal opening of 2.3" accommodated the paper when I cut them on the guidelines. Once you've made your bookmarks, place them in your bible. Consider attaching ribbons or tassels to the bookmarkers so you can find your readings at glance.

I hope you find the Lectionary Bookmarkers helpful in your prayer life! You'll also find a full calendar of the lectionary readings at theanglicananchoress.com. May God Bless you.
